HINSDALE--Please Note: should the dislodged Turkish fleet retreat to Greece, then Italy will show a -2. Oaklyn should submit a standby second removal.

NAPLES--Life in the bush has been good to me. The usual sunshine and a bath once in awhile. Birdwatching, an obsession, took precedence over family planning.

My nutrient sources have prospered, leaving me with a good color for my skin. And, food being plentiful to me, caused my belly to grow round as a jelly ball.

As if I was always on cocaine and hash-hish, I spent my time in pretty much of a free-flight stage, swaying to and fro as it seemed. Looking out and beyond, I could see the autumn leaves also floating, down and down, crashing onto the break-hard ground, there to rot, there to give birth to a new era.

"Autumn leaves! Did I say Autumn leaves! My gosh! It's autumn! The ~~XXXXXX~~ Autumn of my life." I worried so!

"Birds in flight! Did I see birds! My gosh, one is landing on the bush just beside mine! Oh! Lord! What will I do?" I worried so much more!

The birds have bands on their legs, as if caught in captivity and let loose, being watched by some big brother who thinks that a ball and chain leaves you freedom. "But, what is that! A recognisable name on that band--it reads--it is! my gosh! It is 'Sergeant'! Damn! And, he is eyeing me. Oh! what a life being a cherry-berry on a bush!
If only he doesn't see me. Stay away Sergeant, damn you! Watch it, that hurt. don't bite me you fool! Don't bittttt..." (Silence)

DEADLINE for Fall, 1904 orders is mail delivery of December 12, 1979

Press:

LONDON (ITALIAN PRESS SERVICE)—Now free on bond and facing Italian charges of soliciting and pandering, English celebrity, Mazie May met with her father to discuss expansion of the family business. Following a lengthy meeting in the Prime Minister's office, May family spokesmen pronounced the opening of a new chain of brothels in Holland.

ROME—Italian authorities announced the revocation of bond which had been set for underworld figure Mazie May, claiming she had fled the country. Fleets were dispatched to bring her back.

ROME-LONDON—I will knock your building block palace down on your pointed vacuous head. You will be crying in your crib, you mental infant! Gone will be the days when you shook your rattle and drooled happily while contemplating an upcoming bowel movement. No more will you coo delightedly at the baubles dangling above your playpen. "Its all over now, Baby Blue." Nothing personal.

VIENNA TO LONDON—Sir, I must express the disgust I felt upon reading your press last time. In my view, not only did you manage to insult the Turkish player, but every player in DIPPY who had the misfortune of reading your attack. Until this point, I have enjoyed the game. Now I can only look forward to its conclusion and the end of my association with you. Sir, you must keep in mind, if that's possible, that this is a game, not a forum for vicious personal insult. I am certain that by now you have already sent a message of apology to the Turkish player, and that if you haven't, one will be in the mails shortly. He certainly deserves that small consideration for even continuing the game with you.

LONDON—NEW SECRET WEAPON UNLEASHED FROM RUSSIA!!! Details reported show the use of "Volga Boatmen" in moving Russian fleets across land. Powered by thousands of these boatmen, the Russian dreadnoughts are creating a new chapter in mobile armored warfare, and front-line use of big artillery. All beware!!!

LONDON (VIA ITALIAN TELEPATHS)—Rumors abound that Prime Minister May has sold Buckingham Palace to cover his gambling debts. Knowledgeable sources indicate that among the debts was a sizeable wager involving his ability to be toilet trained, and another regarding the length of time he could go without a security blanket.

The Prime Minister was recently seen in Parliament throwing a temper tantrum and pouting, and refusing to answer questions posed by an impartial and fair Italian press team.

TURKISH PRESS—Turkey to World—Everyone check your last issue of DIPPY. I want you all to look at Turkey's press to England. This is important because the subject of that press; Michael McGreevy has worked out an agreement with our own Englishman Mark May. McGreevy will be regularly exchanging bras for sets of original autographed Mark E May commemorative wooden blocks. Mark and Michael declined comment.

McARDLE CONSULTS WITH PRESIDENT

By Regis Gordoal-Palumbo

WASHINGTON--This reporter has learned that John McArdle, in the guises of a patent attorney "on business" in DC, has consulted with President Carter over the Iranian situation. McArdle was summoned to the White House via the "Itasca hotline" hidden from view in the lawyer's home furnace. The STAR has learned McArdle has been on retainer from the White House since the "Bay of Pigs" affair. Henry the K liked his strategy so much that he kept McArdle on to handle the Watergate situation. Now, it appears President Carter is seeking McArdle's counsel concerning Iran. Sources inside the White House tell me John's advice to El Presidente was simple, "Nuke the joint."

CITY BUDGET HITS RECORD HIGH!

By Len O'Royko, STAR Chicago Politics Gadfly
CHICAGO--Mayor Janey Byrne has proposed a record high Chicago city budget of 1.4 billion (with a "B") dollars, most of it going to the already inflated paycheck of Alan Peters. The mayor is eliminating 1500 city jobs in order to meet Peters' pay demands.

The mayor estimates the lane and the halt "will have to simply do without," if Peters is to be retained in his management position. If you recall, Peters is responsible for the mayor's new snow plan (Snowjob '79) and it's been rumored he provides Jane with his "special services" after business hours. Commenting on that report, Peters told this correspondent, "You know what they say about us black dudes," as he casually scratched what looked to be his kneecap.

DESERT RIDERS EDGE COUNTES IN BATTLE ROYAL

RENO, NEV., Nov 16—The Nevada Desert

The game was spiced by the ejection of Montrose Mackley at the 2:05 mark of the 3rd period. He proved not to be a scoring factor, but as a scoring threat, he was missed. Dave Watson filled in, but went to the pines with 6 fouls midway in period 4.

The home team led 128-126 inside the final minute, when Roswell called on Pluggs. He knotted the score, at 128, but it was the Coyotes' last gasp.
